MARCH 2011

3/1 The Moon is VOC* until 12:14 am ET. Once the moon moves into Aquarius, you enter a perfect couple of days to create a clear vision of future plans. Today you may be attracted to new and unusual people, experiences and things. Luck is with you if you're on the road or traveling, because you can taste different flavors, no matter how fleeting.

Shopping for clothes/possessions may be thrilling if you love unique pieces. On the other hand, if this is not your usual style, you may wonder in a few days what possessed you. If that is the case, you can thrill an Aquarian friend with a gift.

The more open you are to serendipity and chance, the more potential there is for magic. You have to be willing to stay the course if the wind changes, but for those who do, transcendence is possible. At the very least, you can have a delightful time doing something new to you. Venus moves into Aquarius at 9:39 pm ET, beginning a cycle of heightened networking opportunities.

3/2 Excellent day to map out strategies and complete tasks. You may feel particularly inspired at problem-solving, especially if you have air signs (Gemini, Aquarius, Libra) strong in your horoscope. It is important to release attachment to how you think things should go and be willing to embrace how they might take flight. Wonderful evening for meeting friends and/or business connections.

3/3 Make time to meditate this morning and it will aid your focus. The Moon is VOC* from 9:37 am to 11:47 am ET; perfect time for a logical purge of clutter.

When the moon enters Pisces, you may feel the need for quiet contemplation. Museums, creativity and listening to music are all activities that amplify your brain's health today. This is a strong day for litigation and getting a handle on a financial concept.

3/4 The New Moon in Pisces occurs at 3:46 pm ET at 13°56". The Sabian symbol for this point is: "Lady in a fox fur". Although our culture has evolved to a place where not everyone thinks of fur as a status symbol, this snapshot image from 1925 conjures exactly that. Think in terms of cunning coupled with creativity and beauty.

This new moon invites you to connect with an animal talisman if that feels right; if you don't usually work with animal symbols, keep alert to what might cross your path. Here in the Northeast, I mainly see the occasional bird because of the harsh weather, but animals can come in ways other than physical encounters. You might flip channels and catch a Discovery channel program on otters, or meet a woman in a shop wearing a rabbit pin. You might dream about a whale.

What is it that you'd like to bring out from your heart and spirit into the physical realm? Your animal guide might give you a point of view to consider. Pisces energy is sweeping and vast, that's why it's the realm of drugs and meditation. If you are dodging something, this is a time to revisit it. If you want to begin a spiritual routine, this is an auspicious time, especially if it is within a community. This sets up an excellent cycle for productivity with an artistic or communication project. At the very least, enjoy these weekend evenings for dancing and music.

3/5 Yesterday's energy continues. You might want to sink into a yoga, dance or tai chi class. Enjoy making art if that pleases you or go to a movie (or two!). If you're lucky enough to be somewhere warm where there's water, spend some time there with someone who stimulates your brain. You may write a song, collaborate on a vision or find a way to give service. It's essential to look for ways to connect to the collective "soup" we are all a part of; this will feed your soul. If you've been troubled it is counter-productive to look for ways to escape; you will inevitably run into yourself. Find a cause and volunteer, it can be very good medicine.

The Moon is VOC* from 11:34 pm ET to 12:14 am the next day.

3/6 Once the moon enters Aries at 12:14 am ET, you may have some restless sleep. Begin your day with some exercise or a walk. The morning can be very effective at reconciling anything misunderstood or making an impact. Power struggles may present themselves in the late afternoon; it might be best to avoid confrontation and wait until early evening when tempers have subsided. People are in a more expansive mood at this time so you may find solutions that eluded you earlier.

3/7 If you take the time to put a strong foundation in place, you can move quickly with a project. This is a good time to initiate short-term challenges that require self-assertion. Be sure to do something physical today within your realm of normal activity.

3/8 Morning can be tremendously productive; get your errands/tasks done early. The moon is VOC* from 11:04 am to 12:52 pm ET. Once the moon enters Taurus, you can apply yourself to projects around finances or personal possessions. You may be very focused and a bit slow-moving today. Remember to stop and smell the roses.

3/9 Although you may wake up cranky or concerned about a monetary issue, push the thoughts out of your head because you are not going to solve the problem that way. Give yourself a nice breakfast that you have time to chew well.

This is another good day for initiating a long-term project or seeking financial advice/assistance. A Mercury/Uranus picture in the sky suggests stimulating conversations and possible leaps of brilliance. If you write, give yourself some solid time with your muse today.

3/10 If you wake up with a gratitude frame of mind, you may continue to encounter reasons for it as the day continues. Plan activities that allow you to focus and take your time. You will get more done this way. A difference of opinion may derail you late in the day, but don't let it confuse you. Allow time for the dust to clear and you can get back on track.

3/11 The Moon is VOC* from 12:26 am to 12:31 am ET, which will only affect night owls. Wait until the moon enters Gemini to send your email proposal. This is an excellent day for communication and transmitting ideas. If your intent is to connect with like-minded souls, whether you have a cause or a business concept, the time is now to send it out. It is very important that you have a clear vision of the message. Cavalier notes won't have the same weight as well-thought out intentions.

Uranus enters Aries at 7:52 pm ET. It briefly entered Aries in the summer of 2010, but now it will remain in the first sign of the zodiac through 2019. When Uranus was last in Aries (1927-'35), there were tremendous breakthroughs in technology, civil and social rights. But the planet that symbolizes change and the individual in the sign of the warrior can also signify an increase in violence for a selfish end.

That's why it's important to make time today, even for a minute to focus on a vision of a better world by celebrating our differences and maximizing the brilliance of the human desire to strive. For your personal relationship with Uranus in Aries, is there a vision you are passionate about? Get ready to rev up and take it on the road! It is also possible you will attract support and members for your team.

3/12 Today carries yesterday's fire, although you may encounter more resistance to whatever you want to get done. It's not enough to stop you in your tracks and it is useful for reassessing certain decisions.

Get outside and see what's happening in the neighborhood. It may be too early to spy any buds sprouting, but signs of activity and changes are sure to be found.

3/13 A wonderful morning for meditation and contemplation or journaling. The Moon is VOC* from 9:11 am to 10:29 am ET. Once it enters Cancer it is time to focus on family and home. You might feel an early pull to spring clean. This is a restless day and you may find yourself in arguments with people you love or power struggles with co-workers (or both, depending on your situation). If there's a way to come to the table and put your differences, do that. Otherwise, bake, map out a garden or go to an aquarium.

Be very aware that words can hurt and what is said may be irretrievable. Whatever you do, don't talk on the cell when driving and pay attention however you get from one place to another. The edgy quality of the day is simply a mood, but lack of concentration can have long-range repercussions.

3/14 This morning is a bit of a mine field. Feelings may be easily hurt. Most people would probably prefer to sleep late or stay home and as a result, any challenging encounter may lead to a snarl. Keep things in perspective. Remember, if someone pushes your buttons, you may not be able to halt reacting, but you can choose to stay in the emotion that's stoked. Compassion goes a long way today.

By mid-afternoon, the mood may have totally changed. You can get more done and gather momentum to bring people together. An afternoon tea or dinner party/ meeting can be tremendously effective for mending fences and building alliances.

3/15 The Moon is VOC* from 6:05 am ET to 3:33 pm. Once it enters Leo, the desire to work may get thrown out the window, unless your work uses creativity, drama and play. This is a dynamic evening to celebrate life. Expect animated conversations. Poetry slams, storytelling, improv and parlor games reach heights of brilliance. Know your limits.

3/16 All day you may be a part of, or witness over-the-top expressions of emotion. These can be happy, inspired and full of purpose; the best outlet is when you have something you are encouraging or creating. Calculated risks can lead to an eventual showdown; you may have to cash in your chips sooner than you'd like. If you plan to go to the theatre tonight, remember to keep the drama on the stage. Feelings can be sensitive, especially in the evening.

We are now in the shadow of the approaching Mercury Retrograde... Ideally you have initiated any major endeavors before this date. If not, choose good days before the retrograde on 3/30.

3/17 It may be hard to focus today. There is a desire to be heard which is at odds with the tug of simply retreating. This can be a highly productive (although frustrating) day for artists, actors, musicians and designers.

The Moon is VOC* from 3:59 pm to 4:53 pm ET. When the moon enters Virgo, you may get a sense of landing on your feet. Regardless, the evening looks far more productive for work and details. If you've had an aggravating day, go to the gym and enjoy a workout.

St. Patrick's Day: stay away from green beer, in general save any partying until the early evening when sobriety has a better chance of ruling the mood.

3/18 You may feel as though Mercury is already in retrograde. Get over it and proceed; consider yourself in training for the days to come. It's always a good idea to check your editing and take your time. The evening may release some short tempers. If you feel like you're reacting without thinking, take a breath. If you're the target of someone who is reacting without thinking, take a walk.

3/19 The Full Moon is at 28°28" Virgo at 2:10 pm ET. The Sabian symbols are: "A man gaining secret knowledge from a paper he is reading" for the Moon and "A prism" for the Sun. This is a dynamic combination. It shows the necessity of preparation before you launch a full expression of yourself.

A loved child is totally prepared to shine in her self-expression. She delights in being. But as she ages, she learns how to shield and store her inner light. By careful study and self-reflection, she becomes poised to share her light selectively. The Virgo Full Moon encourages you to reflect on whatever you might presently have in motion and pay attention to the details of its expression. It might be time for adjustments so that your prism can catch the light.

The Moon is VOC* from 2:10 pm to 4:03 pm ET. When the moon enters Libra, be prepared for the potential of an emotional see-saw. This isn't necessarily bad, unless you've planned to be two places (or with two dates) at the same time. Unexpected events flow best when you keep the lines of communication open.

3/20 A rough start in the morning if you overextend; choices are tough but making them pays off. Application of projects and taking responsibility gains support later in the day. Even though the moon is now waning, this is a day of fresh starts. Endeavors of partnership get a thumbs up, especially if they have a spiritual focus.

This is the Vernal Equinox, when the Sun enters the sign of Aries at 7:21 pm ET. It symbolizes the spark of spring; a rebirth. For those who celebrate Purim, it is a joyous day because the energy reminds us God is in everything. Conversations may be all over the place in the evening as the heart has trouble aligning with the mind. Suspend judgement and listen deeply and all will become clear.

3/21 Today may have a magical quality about it, especially with people you meet. You may feel inspired in the morning and change your original plans. Go with the flow, say “yes” to invitations that feel right and partner with your heart. Doors open where before you only saw a wall.

The moon is VOC* from 2:35 pm ET to 3:17pm. During this time, you may feel in a state of suspended animation as the forward movement in the earlier part of the day slips into reflection. Go with it and meditate, contemplate or take a break. Once the moon enters Scorpio, you may experience a quick landing back to earth. Good evening for research and an intimate tete`-a-tete`; or curl up with a good book to recharge.

3/22 The moon in Scorpio sets a mood for deep work and conversations. This may be too much for some; if you’re coming on too strong, be sensitive to how you’re received. Avoid starting anything that involves finances; it’s better to simply research options instead. Relax with a mystery or martial arts class.

3/23 Yesterday’s guidance still applies through the VOC. It may take more time than usual to figure out what you’re wearing/makeup, because a general dissatisfaction may affect you. Choose things that give you a sense of worth.

Relationships may be particularly prickly, especially in the morning, and heightened in conversations about money and/or love. The Moon is VOC* from 4:08 pm to 4:45 pm ET. Once the moon enters Sagittarius, the mood may noticeably shift. The party/dinner engagement you were trying to muster energy for, suddenly seems enticing. Go out by all means; it’s an evening to meet people and the best parts of yourself.

3/24 A sense of wonder and potential fills the day. Get into action and go places. You may feel a bit charmed today, and if you’re a fire sign (Sagittarius, Leo or Aries), you may well be. People are open and interested and if you have a message to send, a product/service to sell, this is the day.

2/25 Yesterday’s energy continues, although there may be a bump in the morning. Tempers can flare as people move too fast and without consideration. Keep the love in your heart more prominent than having things your way and the situation will right itself in time. The afternoon bodes well for excitement and harmony. If you find yourself in an exotic and/or spiritual situation, you may feel blissful and alive. If you’re not in that kind of environment, then you have the potential to create it in your mind.

The Moon is VOC* from 9:25 pm to 9:57 pm ET. Once it enters Capricorn, your sense of responsibility may increase. This may cause tension with a desire for freedom and you’ll have to make a decision. It may be as simple as cutting an evening out shorter than you’d planned, because you want to be fresh in the morning.

3/26 You may have to rework your plans in the morning. Don’t let any possible upsets throw your day, because this can be a highly productive one. There is tremendous power in your ability to execute a task in the morning. This may be utilized in an exercise class, a personal or a business conversation. A Venus/Neptune picture in the sky suggests great potential for spiritual and loving connection. Celebrate with a meditation group, a music performance or intimate connection with someone you love.

3/27 Just after midnight suggests possible conflicts; dreams may be jumbled or restless. If you sleep through them your unconscious may work through them. Venus moves into

Pisces, beginning a cycle of a deepening interest in spiritual love. Although conversations may highlight differences of opinions, if you stay with them you can meet the challenges and bridge the chasm.

The Moon is VOC* from 11:17 pm to 7 am ET the next morning.

3/28 An Aquarius Moon indicates a desire for change. The morning news may emphasize power struggles and concerns with the financial market. This is the last Jupiter opposite Saturn which is the half way mark in the great Jupiter Saturn Cycle. This 20 year cycle has been used since ancient times to forecast social and political change. There were 2 of these oppositions in 2011, so this is the last pass and should not be as impactful. Whatever may happen on the news, there is a strong potential for information to be revealed that will turn around a negative spin.

3/29 The day before Mercury retrograde shows great optimism especially when responsible weight is applied. Whatever you may have decided yesterday, or whatever fears may have been unearthed, you can see the other side and believe in your power to make a difference. Excellent day for connecting with like-minded people.

3/30 This is a marvelous day for spiritual reflection and spending time with people you like. Volunteer, give, let yourself stretch into the part of you that feels one with all people. If this thought doesn't fit you, then stretch as far as it does fit. Blessed are those who write, because you may feel a strong tug to do so and whatever flows out may be channeled.

Mercury goes station retrograde at 4:48 pm ET (through 3/23). You may want to read my post about the myth of Mercury. Know that this is a time when signing important contracts is best avoided, as are interviews or buying electronics. It's a good time to edit, go over information and strengthen your intuitive/meditative skills.

The Moon is VOC* from 6:22 pm to 6:38 pm ET. Once it enters Pisces, a powerful period begins for deep meditation and manifestation thoughts. Revise your vision board, listen to the Vortex audios by Esther and Jerry Hicks or spend time in meditation. You may prefer listening or making music or art. If you make time for conscious communion with your Higher Self, whatever that means to you, you are amplifying the vibration for peace and love on this Earth.

3/31 The Moon is VOC* from 9:43 am AND all day on April Fool's! Make this a time for organizing, making art, writing, singing or going on a retreat. Do not enter any contracts or make any long term plans or engagements... unless of course you don't want them to come to fruition. If you've done your taxes, send them off and you'll hear nothing about them from the IRS.
